FROM THE SPORTS DESK...

The Week That Was

The third and fourth graders remain hard at work preparing for the upcoming junior varsity season. Tremendous strides have been made over the past month. They have become more comfortable with the basic skills and their understanding has grown greatly. Team plays and strategies are now being introduced and reviewed. Starting next week, they will be joined by the fifth and sixth graders who are interested in playing. With only three weeks until the first game, it won't be long before they take to the court and play for real.
